JESUS, HISTORY AND HIS-STORY:

by Dale Parsley

I once heard someone say, “History, is really all about HIS – STO- RY.” Jesus’ story is intriguing, unique, natural yet supernatural; a story of a poor man yet offers the greatest of riches anyone could obtain (Ephesians 1:3). There’s no doubt that no man has ever changed the world and the course of history more than this man. Author Daniel Rops gives a great summation of HIS-STORY:

“There was once a man who lived during a precisely defined period in the reigns of Augustus and Tiberius Caesar. His existence is an incontestable fact. He was born as a manual worker, a carpenter...Yet he said the most surprising things that have ever been heard. He said that he was the Messiah...He found men to accompany him along the roads of Palestine, as he traveled across the country. He performed miracles with disconcerting ease...[then] the man was suddenly wiped out, without putting up the slightest resistance. So far from being discouraged by this failure, several of his disciples went out into the world to bear witness to his divinity, even with their blood...That this man of poor and uncultivated stock should remake the basis of philosophy and open out to the world of the future an unknown territory of thought; that this simple son of a declining people, born in an obscure district in a small Roman province, this nameless Jew like all those others despised by the Procurators of Caesar, should speak with a voice that was to sound above those of the Emperors themselves, there are the most surprising facts of history...The most astonishing fact of all is that this life which culminated in agony did not end: it re- appeared in a stupefying new perspective. This dead man came to life, he spoke and moved, he showed himself to those who had known him alive, and in defines of logic, his disciples were to say that this was for them the supreme incontestable testimony, ‘And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain’ (1 Cor. 15:14). History must either reject Christianity or accept the Res- urrection.” (Daniel-Rops, Jesus and His Times, p. 11,12,13)

For this is the will of God, that by doing good you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men—as free., yet, not using liberty as a cloak for vice, but as bondservants of God. ~1 Peter
