Words of Flattery or Faith?

Dale Parsley

Mark Twain once said he could go for two months on a good compliment. Indeed, a simple compliment can go a long way when one is down. However, not all compliments are well intended praise, but flattery. A simple Google definition defines flattery as "excessive and insincere praise, given especially to further one's own interests." In one sense, to be flattered feels better than a rebuke; yet behind such praise is a selfish agenda, often for ones' harm. Jonathan Swift once wrote,

'Tis an old maxim of the schools, That flattery's the food of fools; Yet now and then your men of wit Will condescend to take a bit.

Likewise, Proverbs 29:5, "A man who flatters his neighbor spreads a net for his feet." Proverbs 26:24-28, "Whoever hates disguises himself with his lips and harbors deceit in his heart; when he speaks graciously, believe him not, for there are seven abominations in his heart; though his hatred be covered with deception, his wickedness will be exposed in the assembly. Whoever digs a pit will fall into it, and a stone will come back on him who starts it rolling. A lying tongue hates its victims, and a flattering mouth works ruin." It was not uncommon for Greek philosophers and pagan priests to manipulate and persuade people through public speaking for their own selfish ends. However, the preaching of the gospel is different. In recalling the first time Paul went to preach to the Thessalonians, he wrote, "For we never came with words of flattery as you know, nor with a pretext for greed – God is witness" (1 Thessalonians 2:5). Lightfoot notes the word in the Greek translated as flattery, "contains the idea of deception for selfish ends. It is flattery not merely for self-interest. It is deception by slick eloquence, the idea of being to win over the hearts in order to exploit them. (Rogers-Rogers 473)

Paul's greatest concern was for people's faith and repentance, not personal fame and riches. The gospel message does not flatter, but often offends. Telling one he is lost and going to hell without Jesus is rather unpleasant but true. It's a message that's not exclusively love, but wrath (Romans 1:18). It's a message that's not exclusively about God's wonderful grace, but the necessity of faith and obedience (Ephesians 2:2-9).

May our compliments never be with impure motives, and we may be willing to speak what is right to another, for "Whoever rebukes a man will afterward find more favor than he who flatters with his tongue" (Proverbs 28:23). "Faithful are the wounds of a friend; profuse are the kisses of an enemy" (Proverbs 27:6).

Bringing in 2019 with scripture

If you obey the commandments of the Lord your God that I command you today,
by loving the Lord your God,
by walking in his ways, and by keeping his commandments and his statutes and his rules, then you shall live and multiply, and the Lord your God will bless you in the land that you are entering to take possession of it.
